European Historic Thermal Towns - Places of Wellbeing & Health, Culture & Heritage

For more than 2000 years people have travelled across Europe to the healing hot-mineral springs which are at the centre of many spa towns around the continent. Over time these towns developed medical centres, pump rooms, and magnificent temples to the art of bathing, along with hotels and infrastructure to keep guests entertained – theatres, casinos, art galleries and concert halls. Parks and gardens are also a beautiful feature of these towns, often with covered walkways and colonnades that celebrate the astonishing nature of its surroundings, the therapeutic landscapes of Europe.

These towns are famous for their festivals – music literature, film, comedy, food and wine... in many cases some of the earliest ones in Europe.

Whether you are searching for a spa break in a vibrant atmosphere full of culture, heritage and entertainment, or a haven of relaxation in a quieter smaller town set in wonderful landscapes, our spa towns are breathtaking destination to pamper yourself and recharge your batteries.

Great Spa Towns of Europe

Eleven towns, Seven Countries, One Remarkable World Heritage Site!

Great Spa Towns of Europe is a group of exceptional European spa towns, which were inscribed on the UNESCO World Heritage List in July 2021. These “Great Spa Towns” represent the best of the European Spa Culture phenomenon which was at its height from the middle of the 18th century to the 1930s.

Mineral-rich and thermal springs were the catalysts for the development of a very special urban landscape, and over time, sometimes over millennia, the towns became renowned as places of healing, culture, architecture, entertainment, and leisure. Their intangible cultural and artistic heritage, and their influence on European culture is as important as their architecture and natural landscape.

With grand hotels, theatres, concert halls, casinos and conversation houses, these towns were the forerunners of today's modern tourism industry, and they have continued to be fashionable resorts of health, leisure and culture ever since. Each of the eleven towns in this ‘serial transnational’ World Heritage Site continues the living tradition of using their waters for health, through drinking and bathing – the perfect places to relax in body mind or spirit.

Bad Homburg

Kur-Royal Day Spa / Royal Relaxing

It's as if Mother Nature had her own favorite places, those that she treats more lovingly and showers more richly with gifts than others. Here in Bad Homburg, it's especially hard to shake off this impression. No wonder this unique place has attracted such illustrious guests right from the start. In fact, not so long ago kings and princes were regularly to be seen in Bad Homburg. They came from all over the world to rest, relax and regenerate. Even the German Kaiser greatly appreciated this idyllic spa town located at the foot of the Taunus mountains, its "champagne" air, its exclusive atmosphere, its casino and its parks.

More than anything else, Bad Homburg owes its power of attraction to its unique spa culture. By the end-1800s the spa town's international public was enjoying the healing, wonderfully soothing treatments of the Kaiser Wilhelm Bad, the former spa of princes. Today, this institution is as popular as ever. What's more, it is actually gaining in attractiveness. For it now has something very special to offer.
